Window Trimming Contest

Every year thousands of dollars are expended by merchants in an effort to induce their customers to "shop early". This campaign for the coming Christmas holidays has been in progress for several weeks and still the cry continues and probably will continue until twenty-four hours before Christmas Eve. And justly so for the customer who really expects service should shop early aside from the fact that it is an inhuman thing to expect clerks in stores to stay up until all hours of the night the few days preceding Christmas.

Richmond merchants have hit a novel plan to induce Richmond people to shop early and one that we have reason to believe will work. In addition it will show the people of Richmond that their stores really belong in the front rank.

We refer to the window trimming contest which will come to a climax at seven o'clock Monday evening. These windows entered in a contest for a trophy to be awarded by the Richmond Merchants Association will give to Richmond shoppers a comprehensive idea of what the other part of the store contains.

According to those in charge of the window contest the windows are to be judged on the selling qualities of the window rather than a trick display which will catch the eye but fail to convey the idea of what the store has for sale.

Interest among Merchants in the contest is widespread and it is safe to bet that on Monday evening a large number of Richmond citizens will be on hand to see what the stores have to offer.

The windows will be more than ordinarily attractive has already been evidenced by preliminary announcements made by merchants who expect to compete. A few minutes spent Saturday in several of the stores seemed to indicate that the merchants are thinking of hardly anything else until Monday night.

Richmond will do well to take a stroll down Macdonald Avenue and the adjacent business streets Monday night and have a look at the windows. We can assure them that they will be well worth while.

Former City Engineer Of Martinez Trying
To Collect $45,000

MARTINEZ, Nov. 28.—The suit instituted by W. S. Farley, former city engineer, against the city, will be heard before Judge H. V. Alvarado next Tuesday. Farley is pressing claims for payment of money alleged to be owing for services performed, involving engineering fees on street work done in this city and amounting to close to $45,000 in all.

The suit has been pending for months and is the outgrowth of the extensive street improvement completed here some time ago. Farley's original plans for the work were rejected on account of the cost and he revised them to provide for less expensive paving. Compensation has been made for the work done and accepted but Farley is claiming his fees in accordance with the original plans and contract, and for all money owing, including sums for work the city trustees claim was not accepted.

APPROPRIATION

President Has Budget Bureau Prepare Account of Sums Being Expended

APPEARS TO BE INTERESTED

Desires Establishment of Commercial Routes as Quickly As Possible

(By Universal Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Although advocating the World Court and anxious to promote peace throughout the world, President Coolidge is expected to recommend generous appropriations for the development of the country's air forces in his message to Congress, which he completed today.

It is understood that one of his first acts of president, was to have the budget bureau prepare for him a complete accounting of all sums being expended for by the government aeroplane uses in order to determine whether the service was being scrapped.

It has been his desire it is understood that the commercial interests project air routes as quickly as possible both for the experimental values and for the establishment of a satisfactory fleet and trained personnel which would be the service of the country in any emergency.

While President Coolidge has instructed the army and navy chiefs to reduce their appropriation estimates in the interest of economy, he is understood to have advised them that the paring should not extend to the air services.

Naval leaders have fought in vain whether he is convinced has supplanted the big battleships as the foremost arm of national defense.

SCIOTS CHANGE MEETING NIGHT

Hereafter Richmond Pyramid of Sciots, No. 42, will meet in Richmond clubhouse on the first and third Fridays of each month instead of on the second and fourth Saturdays as in the past. The decision to make the change was made at the meeting of the Pyramid in Richmond clubhouse last night. The meeting place will continue to be at this hall until the new Masonic temple is completed.

Other important business in connection with the lodge was transacted at the meeting, over which Toparch George Bengley presided. A large number of members attended.

Richmond Pyramid was given a full report on the annual Sciots convention held recently at Stockton. Toparch Bengley, who with Dan Cox and A. C. Burdick, represented Richmond Pyramid as a delegate at the convention, gave the report and the other delegates outlined the highlights of the convention.

Under the charge of M. E. Martin, a committee served refreshments after the session to round out the evening.

President Coolidge has refused to extend General Butler's leave of absence and indications are that he will be back with the Marines on January 1, when his leave expires.

MAN ACCUSED OF BATTERY IS ARRESTED

With the arrest of Francisco Espinoza at Giant early yesterday morning, the man-hunt that covered all of western Contra Costa county since Friday afternoon came to an end. The arrest was made by Constable A. McDonald of Pinole, who had been on the trail of the fugitive from the time of his alleged crime until his capture.

The man was wanted for an alleged assault on Daniel J. Ryan, foreman of the crew at Christie station on the Santa Fe line, when he became angered during a dispute with Ryan. Espinoza is said to have seized a heavy iron track wrench and struck at Ryan who partially warded off the blow with his arm. Ryan was knocked insensible and was taken to the Martinez hospital.

Espinoza attempted to escape after the escape, taking to the hills, where he waited for night to come, when he tried to break through the cordon of officers, who guarded every highway and railroad line, and find shelter with friends at Giant.

TEXAS RETURNS
NO INDICTMENT

(By Universal Service)

AUSTIN, Texas, Nov. 28.—No indictments were returned by the grand jury of the district court here, which for the last several weeks has been investigating the affairs of the state highway commission, under direction of Attorney General Dan Moody. The grand jury made its final report today and adjourned. Its report merely referred all unfinished business to the next grand jury.

Members of the legislature, who have demanded a special session of the legislature to investigate highway expenditures were disappointed. They had expected the grand jury to take some action.

Governor "Ma" Ferguson remained silent today regarding the special session, but she did find time to take a thrust at wealthy violators of the prohibition law. She offered a reward of $500 for the arrest and conviction of any person worth $5,000 or more who is found in possession of liquor. In her proclamation she all but gave the names of some of the men at whom she is aiming. It is regarded as a stormy political document.

Nearby clubs now operating are in Oakland, Berkeley, Sacramento, San Jose and San Francisco. Members of Masonic orders are invited by the committee, to attend and bring a Masonic friend. The committee is composed of Dr. C. L. Abbott, W. T. Helms, W. J. Richards and L. M. Johnson.

National Body
Asks Merchant
Marine Change

(By Universal Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Recommendation of a complete reconstruction of Government machinery for administration of shipping affairs as well as federal aid for shipping, the National Merchants Marine Conference today made public its final report on the session held in this city November 16, and 17.

The recommendations are almost entirely along lines advocated by Secretary of Commerce Hoover. Among the suggestions made by the conference for action by Congress are:

Reduction of the U. S. Shipping Board from 7 to 3 members and making it a semi-judicial body. Vesting all executive functions in the emergency fleet corporations, the president of which should be under supervision of a national advisory board, appointed by the President of the United States, with a cabinet member as chairman.

Concentration in the Department of Commerce of all government services relating to the promotion of shipping.

After the vaudeville show, which lasted for an hour and a half the dancing was the main diversion of the evening.

MARTINEZ, Nov. 28.—A deed placed on file here today showed that the Atlas Powder company, owner of the Giant Powder company, has transferred 83 acres of land at Point Isabella to the latter company. As far as could be learned today the Giant Powder company is not contemplating any expansion.

Drués Women To Fight in Syria
Against French

(By Universal Service)

LONDON, Nov. 28.—Two thousand and Drués women have mobilized as a "vengeance corps" to fight side by side with their male compatriots against the French in Syria, according to a Bererucci dispatch to the Sunday Express. It quotes one Drués person of note as saying 60 women lost their lives in one battle.

The widow of Nassib Atrache, who was killed last month took up arms with another young woman and headed the vengeance party.

POLICE ROW

OAKLAND, Nov. 28.—The action of the Oakland civil service board in reinstating Inspector Joseph Robinson, dismissed some weeks ago, as a result of a disturbance in the dining room of the Athens club, from the police force, is expected to be followed by a grand jury investigation into alleged "witness tampering" in the case.

President Sophus Nelson, of the service board, issued a statement today telling of his belief that witnesses appearing in Robinson's behalf had been approached and that testimony did not warrant sustaining Commissioner Frank Colburn's action in dropping Robinson from the force.

Nelson said that the attempt to tamper with the witnesses was evident and that he told Robinson and his attorney that a grand jury probe was not likely.

Robinson was dropped from the department on the complaint of Robert L. Harper, who claimed that he was dining with a party at the Athens club when Robinson interrupted the party and struck both him and Mrs. G. H. Dodge. He claimed that Robinson was intoxicated. Both Harper and Robinson were dropped from the club's membership roll.

Both machines were badly wrecked in the crash but neither Mrs. Cosine nor DeLeon were injured.

GOAT ISLAND
FOR ESTATE

Suit will be filed by Richard P. Doolan in an effort to gain possession of Goat Island on the claim of an Oakland woman to the title of the island, Doolan announced yesterday in Sacramento, after completing a search of the state archives to prove his claim. His action will be based on the estate of Mrs. Towena Dowling McLean Day, who died last year, leaving approximately $60,000 and a claim to Goat Island.

Mrs. Day's father is declared to have bought the island in 1849 from an early settler. Her father's name was Thomas Dowling and Doolan, according to the Sacramento announcement, asserts that he is the heir to the island, because he is related to the Doolan of Dowling and Doolan of Queens county, Ireland.

Doolan is seeking the assistance of a firm of New York bankers in waging his legal battle for the island, as he claims Dowling sold this firm one-fourth of what is now the naval station in 1869 for $50,000.

General Characterized Examination in Mitchell Trial As "All Damn Rot"

(By Universal Service)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—Brigadier General Edward L. King, whose diagnosis of "damn rot" stirred up a storm of protest during the hearing yesterday, will remain in the army court martial, trying Col. William Mitchell unless he is challenged.

There is no authority it was learned today for General King to retire voluntarily as a member of the court martial, once the trial is under way.

Representative Reid of Illinois, who is Colonel Mitchell's counsel, was conducting an examination during which the remark was made. Already he has declared that he does not intend to ask for the retirement of General King from the court.

ONE HELD IN MURDER CASE
IN HUMBOLDT

EUREKA, Nov. 28.—The grand jury today held Jack Ryan, 22, half-breed, to answer for the murder of Carner Wagner, 18, Eureka beauty shop attendant, found murdered last October in the hills near here, in the superior court. Ryan's half brother Walter David, was freed by the order of the court.

The stains on Ryan's coat were made by human blood, H. A. Duffy analytical chemist, testified. This testimony added to the circumstantial evidence being woven about Ryan by the prosecution. Other parts of this chain were the testimony of Professor E. O. Heinrich that Ryan's Luger pistol fired the shot found in Miss Wagner's head, and the finding of the girl's watch in Ryan's chaps by a friend of the slain girl. Ryan insists that the watch was planted.

THE WORTH OF LIFE

Two High school students in Cincinnati, killing themselves by agreement, leave this explanation:

"This life of a human being is not worth all the effort which must be put forth to maintain."

"We do not believe in any hereafter."

"In our last moments we believe we are sane."

What a capacity for self-delusion those three statements reveal!

There are times in the life of every normal individual when he feels that his life isn't worth while—that he might be better dead. There may also be individuals so constituted or placed that their whole life seems futile, or worse. But of this we may be sure:

If human life on the whole were not worth living, we should not be here alive. If there were more misery than happiness in the average life, or in the total life of a race or age, life would perish by the very laws of nature. The "favorable balance" of good, of enjoyment, of satisfaction, of happiness, forms a surplus that keeps life going. Also, in all probability, some divine plan that has a place and purpose for all of us, though this must be more a matter of faith.

No belief in a hereafter? Addison admirably expressed the great argument for immortality, outside of Scripture, when he wrote:

"It must be so! Plato, thou reasonest well."

Else whence this pleasing hope, this fond desire, This longing after immortality? Why shrinks the soul Back on herself and startles at destruction?

'Tis the divinity that stirs within us.

'Tis God Himself that points out an hereafter

Sanity? So opposed to natural instinct and normal reason is self-destruction that it may be doubted whether any person ever killed himself in a sane moment. Suicide itself argues insanity at the moment.

KNOWING PEOPLE

"A job that brings you into contact with other people has advantages," remarks B. C. Forbes, business writer. He observes that the most conspicuously successful business leaders have mostly had work which gave them a chance to rub shoulders with people and learn about human nature. And "to know human nature is as important as to know books."

Sound gospel—within limits! It is good to be in touch with people, but not with too many people. Continual contact with streams and masses of people tends to make a man or woman blasé and cynical. We see this everywhere in public and semi-public jobs. Traffic officers, theater attendants, waiters, postoffice clerks, conductors, usually develop a mechanical attitude toward people. Their contracts are superficial. When they do see beneath the surface, they probably see the unpleasant side oftener than the kindly human side. For human beings are seldom at their best in public. People, individually or in the mass, cannot be really known by such contracts. Crowds are like herds of cattle or flowing streams.

It is far better to be associated closely with a few people and know them well. This is especially true for literary men and artists. Knowing a dozen people thoroughly, a genius might almost create a world. It is almost as true for business men. The closer contact, the deeper insight, is invaluable. People are pretty much alike, and he who knows a small circle well may understand all.

WHAT IS MUSIC?

Tremendous Strides in Science of Acoustics Open New Vistas to Art of Musical Expression.

WHAT is music? It is surprising how few people can give a coherent answer to this question. Yet in a way it is not remarkable, for music embodies far more than the simple physical elements of which it is composed.

The dictionary says: "Music is the science and art of the rhythmic combination of tones, vocal or instrumental, embracing melody and harmony for the expression of anything possible by this means, but chiefly anything emotional." That, perhaps, is as good a general definition as one can hope to formulate. But even that leaves much unsaid.

The truth is that so many radical changes are being made constantly in the composition and reproduction of music, that our ideas about it are forced to change with them. There was a day, in the dim beginnings of recorded time, when primitive forest dwellers regarded the harsh monotone screechings of their bone flutes and the thumpings of their crude drums as music of the highest order.

Today we have our highly organized sonatas and symphonic poems rendered by great orchestras containing scores of varieties of instruments, and not only produced but reproduced in many of the times by the talking machine, or spread instantaneously over the face of the globe by the radio.

The Dawn of Music

The first music undoubtedly was the modulation of the human voice in song. In the beginning man found that he could get more out of his vocal cords than the guttural grunts which constituted his primitive mode of speech. He discovered that he could produce sounds both higher and lower than those used in the accustomed intercourse of the spoken word. Charmed by the novel and not unpleasant effect, he experimented in various arrangements and combinations of these new notes. This simple melody, echoing in some smoky cavern, was the first music.

The invention of the various musical instruments followed at a much later date. Tradition has it that the lyre, or harp, was discovered by the vibration of the wind in the dried membranes stretched across the shell of a dead tortoise. The development of the flute and other wind instruments is supposed to have originated in the sound made by the river breeze blowing across hollow reeds on the water's edge.

Many centuries passed before man began to apply rational thought to music. Slowly it was organized into a science. Learned men studied it and found that sound is due to vibrations which travel through the air and enter the ear. It was found that these sound vibrations have three distinct qualities, and that every sound has its own individual combination of these three qualities. Moreover it was discovered that these vibrations may be combined together according to mathematical rules, producing what is known as Harmony. Later Harmony became so ramified and complex that it is now regarded as a separate study, governing the whole subject of chord structure.

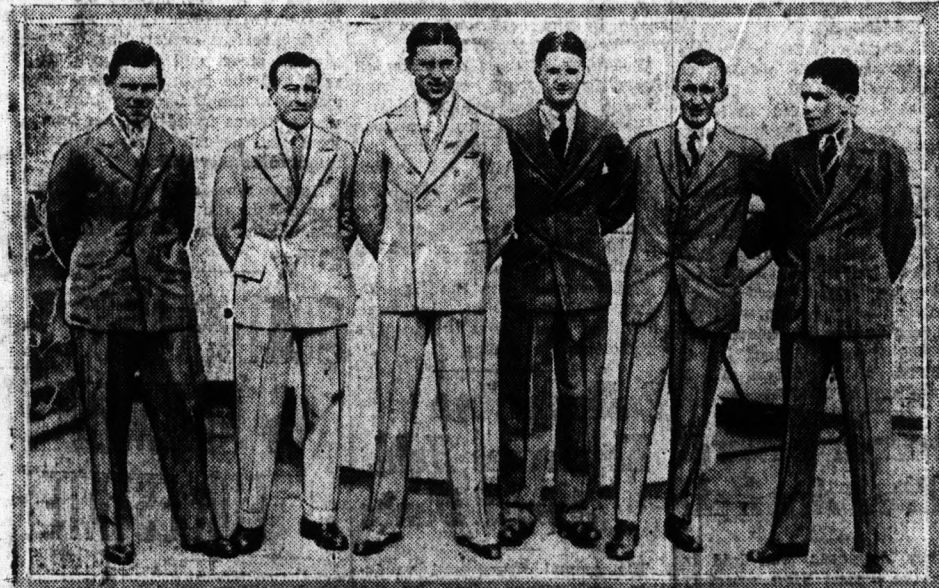

Three Factors in Sound

The three qualities which characterize every sound vibration are: (1) Intensity, or loudness; (2) Number of vibrations per second, which determines its Pitch, or place in the ascending scale of notes; and (3) Overtone, by which the hearer distinguishes the violin from the piano, and the tenor voice from the bass, even when striking notes of identical pitch.

This last-named quality is one of the most elusive of musical problems, particularly in the field of sound reproduction. In attempting to capture and release a series of musical notes such as a vocal or instrumental selection, it always has been found more difficult to distinguish between various instruments than their loudness or pitch. Thus, a talking machine record of Beethoven's Fifth Symphony, while successful in reproducing the volume and pitch of the vibrations, may leave something to be desired in the matter of distinction of their skill.

As the various means of playing music are developed, as more and more is known about the basic vibrations which constitute musical sound, there will be corresponding progress in the art of composing. These notes, or vibrations, will be gathered into new and untried combinations which were impossible with the old instruments, and the form of musical compositions will expand just as they did when orchestration superseded the more primitive instrumental arrangements of the Middle Ages.

Oxford-Cambridge Tennis Team Show Preference of College Men for Double Breasted Suits

British Sportsmen Favor Double Breasted Suit, Wider Lapels, and Higher Waistline

THAT their correct form in tennis is equalled by the correctness of their style is evidenced in the clothes worn by prominent British collegians who as members of the Oxford-Cambridge team recently arrived in America.

If anything more was needed to establish the authenticity of double breasted coats as an important style, the fact that five members of a group of six men which included J. H. Van Allen, J. P. Carlton, J. J. Lesard, H. K. Lester, J. R. Summer

Capt. J. J. Lesard, third from the left in particular wears a suit identical in every detail with the type that according to style authorities of Hart Schaffner & Marx will be one of the most popular styles of the fall and winter.

That the double breasted style is rapidly growing in popularity in America, is indicated, say these authorities, by its present vogue among college men as well as among the best dressed men in the social, financial and sports world, whose manner of dressing reflects the influence of correct English style.

A Long-Felt Need

By such advances the science and art of music progresses. Such achievements are to music what the development of printing was to literature—a means of disseminating on a far-flung scale, and for all time, the temporary and ephemeral accomplishments of man. Had these devices been in existence as long as printing, who knows what great geniuses of the instrument and the aria would have been preserved for our present-day pleasure and instruction? How many unnumbered virtuosos have lived and been forgotten in the past for the lack of a permanent recordation of their skill?

As the various means of playing music are developed, as more and more is known about the basic vibrations which constitute musical sound, there will be corresponding progress in the art of composing. These notes, or vibrations, will be gathered into new and untried combinations which were impossible with the old instruments, and the form of musical compositions will expand just as they did when orchestration superseded the more primitive instrumental arrangements of the Middle Ages.

"BOBBED HAIR" with Marie Prevost is a pictorialization of this story by Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS
Connemara Moore was to have announced her engagement tonight, but instead, she stole away from Aunt Crimena's Connecticut home and hid in a long series of exciting adventures on Long Island yachts. And now Auntie and her lawyer, Brewster, searching for the girl, find themselves aboard another strange vessel. Saltontall Adams, one of Connemara's suitors, is trying to explain his identity to the mysterious Sweetie.

Sweetie was human. "Don't agitate yourself, dearie." She sat down beside him. "You're in good company. None of these folks—" she indicated with a nod the rough lads who had taken command of the absent Mr. Harvey's motor boat—"is a social register, but they're good stock. You can't tell what a couple of generations of money will do for them. Now, your folks started their nest egg by cheating the Indians. These boys—"

"Miss O'Reilly," he was very earnest. "I haven't a doubt your friends are charming, delightful, perhaps a little abrupt—but perfectly splendid Yale boys. But what are they doing here and where are we going and—for Lord's sake, don't lean up against that shoulder."

"We can't make no landing hereabouts."

Sweetie drew herself away stiffly. "Beg pardon. I hadn't meant to presume on the informality of the occasion."

"Miss O'Reilly, don't misunderstand me—"

She smiled gently. "Oh, I don't." Then her expression relaxed into something that bordered kindness. "I know. The Swede fetched you a clip on the shoulder. Well, I'm sorry. I'm almost sorry I tried to get your goat. But you'll admit it was a golden opportunity after all the welfare work you and your family have done for me and the likes of me. It used to be a real treat for all of us little shopgirls to be herded out on our one Saturday-afternoon-off to a picnic at your mother's place and be read a paper on 'Browning's Influence on the Aztecs' and another on the 'budget system,' when you're making eighty a week."

Saltontall Cabot Adams blushed. "I'm sorry, Miss O'Reilly. I can see now how little that must have benefited you in your chosen career of, say, rum running."

"Wrong again," said Sweetie. "Only the coarser natures go in for that sort of thing."

"Then what is it?"

She glanced up at the heavens. "Last night the moon had a golden rim. You don't get nothing out of me, except abuse. Here—" she took off her jacket and rolled it into a pillow. "Lean your shoulder up against that. It'll be easier."

He looked at her. "You're very kind."

"Yes, I am," she snapped. "But here's where our conversation ends. If you're sensible you'll lay low and inconspicuous from this on. And to strengthen her point Sweetie moved away."

VERSATILE BILL IS BOOKED FOR THE CALIFORNIA

Another big fun bill comes to the California Theatre today, with Gages Kiddie Revue and vaudeville versatile entertainer Adolpho holding the headline honors of the five big acts of vaudeville, in conjunction with the screen feature "The Dixie Handicap," featuring Claire Windsor, Frank Keenan and Lloyd Hughes.

Giving the program a bright opening is the act of Albert and Rosella, a European novelty, featuring the Human Marionettes. "Darktown Frivolities" with Miller and Ivers as the principals is a blackface comedy, singing, roller skating and boxing presentation that is offered in a spirit of burlesque.

MacDonald, Sparks and MacDonald, three dainty girls, with musical moments that are entertaining and worth while are sure to be a hit. The girls are talented and good to look at. Acrobatic and oriental steps with harmony singing interspersed are included in their act.

The Gages Kiddie Revue, with ten young artists, in a cycle of song and dance will be one of the highlights of the bill. They are full of pep and chuckful of talent. Patrons will wonder at their pretty ensemble numbers and beautiful ballet steps.

ON THE SCREEN

"The Dixie Handicap," written by Gerald Beaumont, and adapted by Waldemar Young, has a cast that includes Frank Keenan, Claire Windsor, Lloyd Hughes, John Sainpolis, Otis Harlan and many others.

Other features on the same program include "Felix Trifles With Time," a Felix the cat comic; "Kinograms" world news events; Carl Richard's California Orchestra; Larry Canelo, at the organ.

Learning to Love Shows Workings Of Divorce Mill

If you are curious to see how the divorce mills of Paris grind out decrees for American heiresses, you have the opportunity in Constance Talmadge's new picture, "Learning to Love," at the Richmond theatre today.

All ends happily of course, but not until Constance has undergone some thrilling as well as screaming amusing episodes which bring "Learning to Love" in to the fore-rank of her comedies.

"Learning to Love" was written by John Eerson and Anita Loos and screened by Sidney Franklin. It is a Joseph M. Schenck production, released by First National. Other features include "Mary Queen of Scots," an "Our Gang" comedy; "Kinograms" world news events.

Cougars Upset All Dope and Defeat Thundering Herd

CALIFORNIANS ARE DEFEATED 17-12 SCORE

Washington State Scores First Touchdown of a Hitherto Uneventful Season

BOTH TEAMS FIGHT HARD

Herbert Meeker, Cougar Quarter, Proved to be Individual Star of the Day

(By Universal Service)
LOS ANGELES, Nov. 28.—Springing the most sensational upset of the 1925 Pacific Coast season, Washington State's football eleven, a team with hitherto had failed to score a touchdown all season, defeated Coach Howard Jones' "Thundering Herd" of the University of Southern California here this afternoon, 17 to 12. The contest, bitterly fought throughout, was one of the most thrilling ever seen in Los Angeles.

Herbert Meeker, Washington State quarter, won the game almost single handed. He scored the first touchdown for the Cougars a few minutes after the contest opened with a thrill-loaded run of 50 yards.

In the second period he kicked a perfect field goal from his own 36-yard line, adding three points for the Cougars, and later tossed a long forward pass to Parkhill, Washington end, who raced over the line for a touchdown. Meeker proved a fighting champion for the visitors and tore through the Trojan line for long gains when yardage was most needed.

The California eleven made 23 downs, compared to ten for the Cougars, but the Trojans lacked punch and the pinches failed to score.

The Trojans, ranking second in the nation for the season's total football scoring, entered the game heavy favorites and expected to run through enough touchdowns in the contest to place them at the top of the list among the country's touchdown majors. They were taken completely by surprise and fell victims to the brilliant attack of the Cougars. A desperate last minute effort by the Californians to score in the final quarter failed.

Sportographs

TWO CLUBS IN S. F.

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—When the board of arbitration of the National Baseball association comes to Los Angeles in January, it will work out on the train enroute the question of placing two ball clubs in operation in San Francisco on the Coast league. Another thing will be the proposition of ousting Toledo of the International, who bucks the majors.

ANOTHER PROBE STARTS

Close on the heels of the charge that the Stanford gridder was roughed by Washington, a charge is made by Professor Nichols that some of the Peninsula high schools have lost games because they were protecting themselves from slugging and such tactics. He said that the boys are usually taught clean football but the officials allow anything to go.

VICTORY JUBILEE

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 28.—The University of Nebraska held no school yesterday. The students were celebrating the victory over Notre Dame and the faculty was helpless to intervene. All day long the joyous students romped about the buildings but all conducted themselves wonderfully. There was no damage to property so there are none to get "canned".

BACK UP DIXON

Seventeen members of the Bear Varsity, mostly stars, have come out with emphatic denial of the rumors about Jimmy Dixon and that there was dissension on the Bear team. They all declared their belief in the half by signing a statement indignantly refuting the charges and declaring that Dixon was a model in both football and social life.

Veterans Hold Chinatown Dance

"A Night in Chinatown" was held by the managers of the veterans' ballroom last night as a novel entertainment for the patrons of the regular dances held there by the directors.

A party of ten young Chinese men from the Chinese National Athletic association, came to Richmond from San Francisco and put on a real Chinese program. The Harry-Bibbins seven-piece orchestra was on hand with special Chinese music and the hall was lavishly decorated in Chinese style.

About twenty-five dollars was given away in door prizes, which consisted of an eight dollar tea set of seven pieces, a set of six cups and saucers, two serving trays, a flower bowl, a salt and pepper, mustard and toothpick set in tray, a fancy tea pot and three Chinese tea pots.

WEST POINTERS SCORE VICTORY OVER SAILORS

POLO GROUNDS, Nov. 28.—The Army mule had a kick with a vengeance today and the Navy goat was the bear of the bruist of the blow. Playing superior football for at least three quarters of the game, the Army took the annual classic by a score of 10 to 3.

Aerial attack was the Army's long suit with Harding at the helm and Wilson snatching the ball out of the air. Hamilton of the future sailors scored a short field goal in the second quarter for the first score of the day and after that it was all mule.

The victory, West Point's second in succession sent the cadets into hysterics and the goal posts were pulled by the roots and carried off during the general excitement, before the soldiers took their boisterous departure. The crowd was one of the greatest that ever saw a football game in New York and also one of the most colorful.
